2. Telephone lines have been stretched from the suburbs and outlying districts to Bucharest and to the Danube. Four of these new lines have been observed. They are insulated with glass or porcelain, and the manner in which the posts have been planted would indicate permanency.
3. All persons passing through the area, which includes a considerable wooded territory around Bucharest, must show papers of identification and are subjected to search. It is rumored that there will be a total evacuation of villages in the vicinity of the Soviet troop locations.
